

Oxford Brookes University

The Oxford International Centre for Publishing is one of the leading institutes for media education in the world, with a reputation for innovation and excellence in teaching and research.

Excellent teaching

The UK's creative industries are growing at almost twice the rate of the wider economy. Our staff all have considerable experience of the media industries, working in book and magazine publishing as well as broadcast and digital journalism. We maintain an extensive network of contacts in the international media industries, including our alumni who are working in management positions throughout the world.

Our graduates have an excellent employment record, and all students have the opportunity to do work experience during their course.

The Centre offers a range of postgraduate and undergraduate awards in journalism and publishing, and carries out academic research, professional development programmes and consultancy.

Our students come from all over the world to enjoy excellent teaching and learning in one of the largest departments in Europe. It is a lively and stimulating environment, and we host a range of special events and welcome many visitors including industry speakers.
